

Are your customers and investors asking about your carbon reduction plans?

Our sustainability strategy workshop helps you develop a carbon reduction plan

Leading organizations worldwide are choosing to do business exclusively with companies that are taking steps to reduce their carbon footprint. Since the carbon footprint of an organization's suppliers affects its own carbon footprint, organizations with zero-carbon aspirations are placing increased scrutiny on their supply chains. A sustainability plan with measurable outcomes will set your company apart and contribute positively toward addressing the global climate crisis.

Challenges we solve:

1. Strong demand from RE100 companies and investors is creating pressure for companies to develop and adopt carbon reduction strategies and targets
2. With energy prices on the rise, renewable energy procurement can help organizations protect themselves against energy price volatility
3. Understanding sustainability and renewable energy options is confusing and complicated – we help create order out of chaos with our team of talented and experienced renewable energy leaders

Our carbon reduction experts will help you:

- Develop realistic goals and priorities specific to your organization
- Evaluate a wide range of carbon-reduction strategies
- Evaluate and manage risk
- Develop a stakeholder engagement and go-forward plan
- Craft a tailored renewable energy procurement strategy
- Create a marketing plan to help communicate your commitment to a more sustainable future to your customers and investors

Why should you sign up for a sustainability strategy workshop?

When you sign up for sustainability strategy workshop, our experts will work with your organization to help evaluate your sustainability and renewable energy options in a pressure-free environment.

As a global Fortune 100 company and a supplier of a wide range of renewable energy products and solutions, we leverage our collective experience across nearly all industry types to help you create a custom plan specific to your needs. Our experience working with major manufacturing companies, government agencies, municipalities, non-profit organizations, commercial and industrial customers, and more, allows us to deliver real-world insight and solutions to our customers.

We evaluate your energy consumption holistically, working with you to address every aspect of your carbon footprint.

Allow our global sustainability and renewable energy experts to chart a path to a more sustainable future for your business. Whether you are looking to develop a global plan or a regional plan – we can help you

How does our sustainability strategy workshop function?

1. Register your interest
2. A representative will contact you to confirm your interest and to request any information that will help us custom tailor your workshop
3. Discovery call held with your team to discuss your organization's priorities and goals
4. Interactive workshop held with our sustainability experts to gather additional information and answer specific questions
5. Receive a custom proposal including an initial recommendation and go-forward plan that you can use to gain internal buy-in and alignment

Please contact us to learn more about how we can assist your company's carbon neutral journey.

sustainability@world-kinect.com

Visit world-kinect.com

